ANITA GIELEN-SLOESEN

About me...I am 63 years young. Born in a little village in the Netherlands, married with Aad. We have two daughters, 5 grandsons and 2 granddaughters, two horses and three cats and live now in Germany for 17 years. I have worked for many years as a pharmacy assistant in a pharmacy and later in a general practice. When I was 6 ,my mom learned me knitting and crochet, and I made clothes for my dolls. My mom sew it together. I had always ideas, sometimes I made some together with my dad.

When I was 18, I took a sewing course with my sister. Only for 2 months, we did not learn anything at all... Then I learned it myself...with many ups and downs. But I learned a lot from the downs....I have made a lot and sold it or give it away as a gift. In 2018 a horse was ill, the vet made the wrong diagnose and in the evening he died when I was with him. My heart cried... That was the beginning of these projects, I started with a bear....and then followed more and more. I make them of old sheets, tablecloths, clothes and then I paint them, that takes many hours. But that doesn't matter....that's hobby! When the process is growing and growing then I see what a character it becomes. Make the clothes ,and then I can't wait no longer and want to finish it. For example, I create bowls and body' s from old newspapers and egg cartons. also low budget, and recycling materials. My husband asked me often when do you sell it? Then I say: when I am old.

CAROL GARRISON

They called me ‘Olive Oil’ when I was young (as in Popeye and Olive Oil cartoon), because I was rail thin. We lived in a tiny, remote town in the American Midwest with little (none actually) access to retail stores so my clothing came from yard sales, hand-me-downs, and mail order catalogues. As a result, with the help of my Aunt, I learned to sew at an early age so I could alter clothing to fit my thin frame. Upcycling was a necessity from an early age and continued to be an asset through most of my life. It only became a hobby after I retired.

I remember with humor some of my early sewing projects. We had a Singer treadle sewing machine where my first attempt ending in sewing through a finger. I once made a one-piece pajama jumper with raglan sleeves. I accidentally sewed the leg piece where the arm was supposed to go. Instead of tearing it out, I adjusted the leg to become an arm, and shortened the correct leg to match the errant arm (now a leg). Upcycling was in my DNA.

Artistic expression was the other constant in my life. I studied art in college, primarily oil and acrylic painting. It also wasn't until I retired that I combined sewing with art in an art form called 'Fabric Collage' or 'painting with fabrics'. I have created many art pieces using only fabric pieces and thread.

We live in the Pacific Northwest, Gig Harbor, Washington - a beautiful area of trees, water, and mild climate located on Puget Sound, a large water area that connects with the Pacific Ocean. I have 3 cats, 1 dog, and a husband. My cats like to keep me company when I sew, whether I want them to or not.

My granddaughter and her cat also live with us, and she is an accomplished seamstress as well. We have accumulated a lot of sewing machines - sergers, embroidery machines, freemotion longarm, and an industrial machine that can sew through ½” of leather like butter. I have 3 mannequins that scare the wits out of visitors when they accidentally stumble upon them. I love denim and wool - and those are my main thrift store goals.

My favorite projects are transforming them into totes, purses, or hats. I create my own patterns. We are fortunate to be able to sell them online, at gift shows, and in local boutiques (or I'd have a house full of projects!)

My business name is CARAUT - stands for CAR (Carol - that's me) and AUT (Autumn - my granddaughter).

DIANNA HACHEY

I don't sell anything as I upcycle just for myself as it is a hobby only so maybe not a good choice for your cover. Thanks for considering my submission. Right now I am going through the stash of knitting from my sister-in-law's mother-in-law who passed away and turning her large amount of knitted triangles into something decorative or useful. Little Christmas ornaments are my project right now which her family can decorate themselves at a Christmas themed party.

EMILY DAVIDSON

My name is Emily Davidson. I'm 31 and live in Northern Michigan with my husband, our two kids, Great Grams and my dog, Lulu. Up-cycling is in my blood. I can remember getting in trouble with my sister in the attic of my grandma's auction house, while my step grandpa Jim was selling things on the auction block below. My mom, Dad, sister & I would drive from Troutdale Oregon to Astoria Washington Friday night to be there for auction day Saturday. It was amazing to be a kid, and see all the interesting things people were buying.

The best part was getting to know serious collectors who displayed their collections proudly... very inspiring. My Grandma was a crafty, savvy & inspiring role model to have growing up.

Visiting Dads parents was just as exciting to me, whimsical even. A quick 16 hour drive down the I-5 to Burbank California where my lovely Mimi & Papa had their forever home. Mimi is 97 and has been a sewing, crafting, fashion queen all her life. Making swaddles has been her new favorite craft for all her Great grand babies. My Papa loved going out to sales and thrift stores, he loved a good deal. Upcycling some of his dress shirts into a patchwork quilt was one of my first projects.

This has left me with an appreciation for all things used, thrifted, and loved that the world has to offer. To me, it's important to pay tribute to the people who collected the items or made the quilts before us. I'm a firm believer in "use what you've got".

I jumped into doing clothing upcycles after my Grandpa Dick passed away and left us all his beautiful hot rod t-shirts. It took a while to be ready to touch them. But I ended up making 5 Dresses for all the ladies in our family & a patchwork quilt for my uncle, his son. It's incredibly gratifying to be able to turn something left behind, into something meaningful. Currently I am working on two patchwork quilts for sisters made out of sweatshirts from their late mother.

I am addicted to the thrill of the hunt and it is very hard to not go to the thrift store when I go to town to get groceries. Things just seem to find me, and I've really enjoyed doing vintage material, afghan, and t-shirt flips from my "thrift store scores". My journey through the craft world has taken me from making bottle cap art, through many different medias, all the way to where I am now: up-cycling memories for my friends, family, and customers. Will you be my next project??

You can follow my journey on Instagram or Facebook, search: Rose Valley Craft. The love and support I've received from my family and friends since starting this journey has been uplifting to say the least. I'm a Mama on a mission, I don't think I can stop this train, so just picture me rolling.

I use doilies to make earrings, brooches and accessories by painting and stiffening them and also I make feathers from fabric I find at op shops. ## GINI HOLMES

I was born and raised in California and am now living in the true northern part of the state by Lake Shasta. I say “true northern” because we are 5 hours above what others consider to be the North: San Francisco. 5 hours away from urban resources, so we excel at fending for ourselves - a tradition instilled in me by my mother’s side of the family. “If you can’t make it, do you really need it?”

Sewing, Art, and Science have always been a big part of my life. I really can't separate them, for they are all a form of creation based on curiosity, skill, exploration, discovery, failure and perseverance. I was fortunate enough to bring these three together via a very random path. I grew up sewing, studied art as an undergraduate, and was then invited to be a visiting artist in at MIT (Massachusetts Institute of Technology,) graduating with a Masters Degree in Art and Technology. Upon graduation, my husband and I made the radical decision to move to Shasta, 40 years ago. 40 years of wonderful discovery. No more ready access to anything I wanted. Learning, once again, to make it myself. Meeting successful, like-minded artists with boundless curiosity. Raising two amazing sons with my musician husband, and rescuing endless numbers of cats. All of this has fed my creativity more than anything I can remember.

My work is diverse, but it always contains a recycling element. I make my print papers and dress forms from my junk mail. My embroidered prints use thrown out fabrics. Repurposed and upcycled papers, waste, and fabrics form the base of my clothing. And now, I am obsessed with creating jewelry from thread scraps left over from sewing classes. I leave jars around the classroom for students to put their clippings in, telling them that it's just like building sand paintings in jars. With these threads, I build a sculptured necklace - never having an idea what it will be - just following the threads as I embroider. Oftentimes, these jewelry sculptures lead to a complimentary piece of clothing.

HELEN OAKEY

My name is Helen aka 'Eclectic Minx' and I am a textile artist based in Yorkshire, England. I create one-off soft sculptures, mainly of birds and art dolls, from reclaimed and vintage materials. I also love to produce muted, subtle coloured fabrics using botanical dyes, sourced from my own garden and local surroundings.

Although my background is in graphic design, my passion has always been for textiles. From an early age, I always loved making things with my hands, especially sewing, and delighted in rummaging through fabric offcuts given to me by my mum's dressmaker friend, which I stored in an old vintage suitcase.

My mum and my auntie were both creative with textiles; knitting, crocheting and sewing. Both were from the 'make do and mend' generation, when people were far less wasteful, something that I now realise, as well as being central to my work ethic, also provides a comforting sense of nostalgia, connecting my past to my present.

Reclaimed fabric appeals to me because as well as the obvious environmental benefits of not buying new, it has a history and so much more personality, be it a stained, yellowing vintage tablecloth with damaged lace edging, a bejewelled evening dress or a pair of heavy velvet curtains that have nested for years in an attic. Each piece takes many hours to make and is unique due to the nature of the materials used. I make similar birds for example, but no two are ever exactly the same. Each has its own personality.

If you would like to know more about my processes and see more of my work, please take a look at my social links.

JACQUI FUNK

I'm a self taught sewer, learning from lots of trial and even more error. I've lived in the middle of Kansas all my life. I've worked at a honey processing plant for 33 years. I spent the last 11 years coordinating a small group of ladies to sew clothing protectors and lap robes for nursing homes, and baby items for crisis pregnancy centers. We donated over 11,000 items during those years. I recently decided to try to figure out what I could sew that might sell well. I kind of accidentally made my first cow bag on old denim jeans and someone immediately wanted to buy it. I made a few more to see if they were popular and the rest is history. My goal is to figure out what works to sell so I can have a bit of an income when I decide to retire.

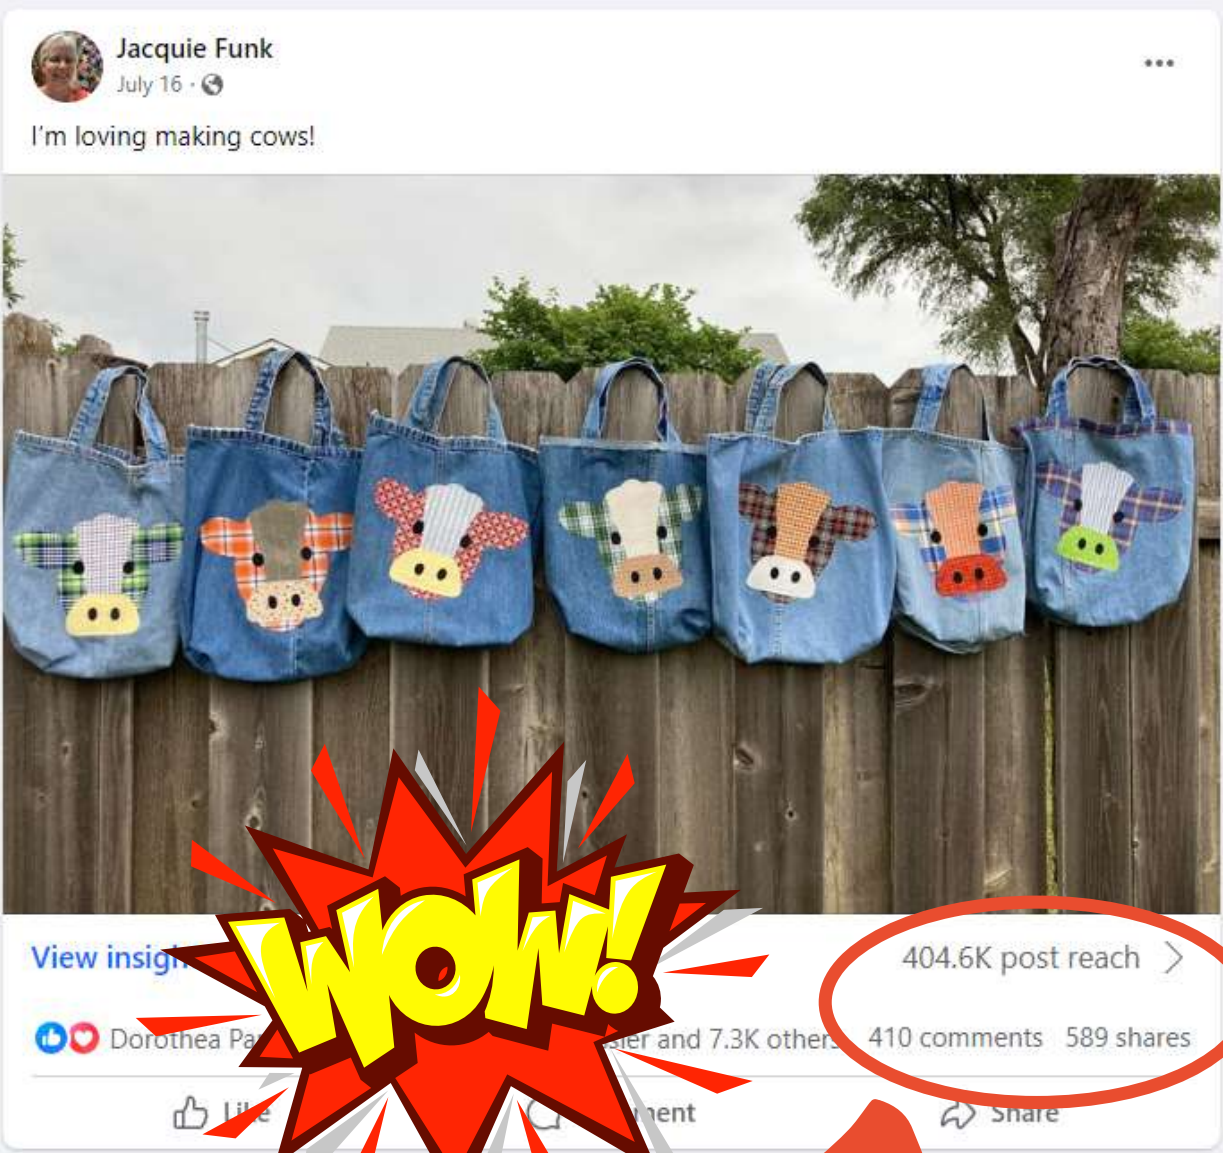

Jacqui is responsible for one of the most successful posts we have ever had in the Group. It was widely shared and brought us a number of new members. You can view it at this link...

JANE BARNETT

My name is Jane Barnett, and I am an artist working under the name Brigante Textile Arts. Apart from my threads, nearly all my materials are recycled. I live in Sowerby Bridge, West Yorkshire in the UK with my partner and french bulldogs. Most of my work is based on folklore with a darker twist, and witches feature heavily in my work as my metaphor for having autism. I am also inspired by books, music, and films. I made a piece based on Hellbender, my favourite horror film, which was bought by the filmmakers (the Adams family) and has been given a cameo in their latest film 'Where the Devil Roams'.

I am off to a film festival to see the film for the first time this month, and to meet them, so I am very excited. This is Zelda Adams (model, musician, film maker, actor) with my 'Hellbender' piece.

To vary his name,

I am also lucky enough to be friends with the brilliant textile artist Mister Finch, and recently got one of his 'figments' (creatures that help stitch witches) tattooed on me.

I sell through my pages on Facebook and Instagram, through the Inverarity Gallery in Scotland and the Centre for Folklore, Myth and Magic in Yorkshire. I also take commissions and have work in various venues.

My name is Jane, I live in Sheffield with my 14 year old son who has additional needs. I also have 8 other grown-up children and five grandchildren. I use recycled fabrics and natural dyes in my work and try to be as eco-friendly as possible. A lot of my current pieces are inspired by social issues, which I'm passionate about such as mental health and disability awareness. ## LILA BERMAN

I grew up with textiles. My mom was a professional seamstress and worked in the garment center for 35 yrs. I stood for hours as she pinned clothes for me. I learned so much about fabric, construction, and quality craftsmanship!

I fell in love with deconstruction, avant-garde, Japanese designers, Boro, and artsy clothing.

As an immigrant child I learned from my parents the value of saving everything. My dad brought home used stamps from around the world. Studying those images taught me about focus, culture and art. And so I began collections of all sorts. I saw the beauty in ordinary things!

I always knew that I wanted to become an artist and when my daughters grew up I started studying painting, which I thoroughly enjoy. And I never gave up on my love for all fiber arts. I have done so many art forms but I try to stay focused on fiber and painting. I even took some millinery classes and love wearing hats!

I took an online class on draping and I've been sewing denim ever since when I asked my draping instructor advice, she said "follow the cloth".

Overlight Mat

Handwritten text on a sample strip

Coincidentally, my art teacher said, “follow the paint”. I think all art forms develop being in the moment!

And so I saved my many scraps and thus started piecing them together to form clothing , hats and accessories. I have a long list of project and so little time! One of the downsides of sewing is having lots of threads following me everywhere 🧵🧵!

MCKENZIE RITCHIE REINTS

I'm not sure the personal story part...I have always been interested in clothes and fashion since I was little...(like I was the kid who watched fashion files on VH1 every Saturday morning growing up.) I didn't seriously get into consistent sewing until about two years ago. I made my first post on Instagram March 11, 2022 and almost two years later, I have 750 followers, follow countless other makers, and I've never looked back. In my past I struggled with addiction and could not find myself.

Through sewing, I found my true passion and have a stronger sense of self and accomplishment. I wouldn't say that it saved me, but it has been an instrumental tool in my healing. Sewing is my new addiction, as well as promoting and supporting other female makers and designers in our industry. I don't get paid, I support them because I love to do so. Everyone needs a cheerleader in life and i love celebrating with my fellow makers and designers. It feels more like a family in the sewing community and I am grateful to be just one voice in it.

ROBIN MILLNER

Hello fellow up-cyclers, I'm a mom I'd four daughters, grandma and teacher who has been sewing since childhood. I was taught by my mom and passed on sewing, crocheting and crafting to my girls. I get the most joy from gifting my creations to friends and family, but I do have a little spot in my daughter's resale store. Robin's Nest is the name of my little business. We all love thrift at charity shops and big church rummage sales throughout the Mid-west in the USA.

Whether it's reselling treasures, modifying for new creations or costumes, crafting or sewing, part of the thrill is the hunt! My up-cycled items have ranged from toys to bags to holiday decor to chemo beanies. I love the inspiration I get from this creative, international group.

ROSE CIAPPARA-WILLIAMS

My name is Rose Ciappara-Williams and I am a sustainable fashion designer and upcycler based in West Wales, UK. I love to create beautiful one of a kind fashion from second hand fabric and "waste" material that would have otherwise ended up in landfill. I have a custom upcycling service which allows people to send me their preloved clothing for me to rework into something new and unique, helping people fall back in love with their clothes while also preventing them from being thrown away. Everything I sew is done on my grandmothers vintage sewing machine, and with secondhand materials. I save all of my scrap material to try to keep my studio as "zero waste" as I possibly can.

These scrap materials go into patchworks and get made into stuffing material for quilted pieces like bags and jackets. I offer a made to order service for my custom designs which include hoodies, jackets and denim jeans. I also recently showed my first upcycled collection at Swansea Fashion Week which was a lot of fun to do a runway and show my work. My love of upcycling stems from my love of nature and the environment and a desire to protect it. If I am not sewing in my studio, I am probably surfing or swimming in the sea with my husband and my dog Pippa."

Please feel free to let me know if you have any questions for me! I've attached a few photos here of my recent work and some of my Swansea Fashion Week collection. Please feel free to use any of these and also any images found on my social media:

SUSANN NILSEN

My name is Susann Brox Nilsen (artist name "Susi"), I'm a self taught artist from Tromsø, Norway. My sewing interest started in 2008 when my son was around 2 years old. He had a favorite teddy bear that was very worn out, so I decided to take action and repair it. I didn't have so much fabric, so random things were used, if I remember correct an old curtain and a colorful jacket. It ended up looking like a messy patchwork , however I realized that I loved the outcome! It developed its own personality and a unique style.

Over the years my sewing grew from just a hobby, to doing commissions, and today it's a large part of my daily work. In 2022 I started to make people's pets in my style, that grew into being very popular. I've made lots of dogs, cats, and even a penguin!

Many find my dolls to be "creepy-cute", which is the perfect combination if you ask me!

SUSAN TREEN

I have been a sewer since I was a child and made my first quilt in my early 20's. (I'm now 65). I have taught quilt classes, and most recently owned a gift store for 16 years where I used my talents for merchandising and also creating recipes and items to sell.

Among those were different popcorn recipes and I created a popcorn company. 2 1/2 years ago I sold my gift store and then this year I sold the popcorn company.

It did not take me long to determine retirement was not for me, and a longtime dream was to own a longarm quilting machine and spend my days being creative on my own terms. I am still adjusting to my new normal and enjoying every minute of it. I am at the beginning of this new life journey and along with creating new quilted items, I am repurposing old cutter quilts into baskets, buntings and whatever my imagination takes me.

My business name is Olmstead and Hanover (which represents the 2 streets I grew up on and is what I consider my journey). I have a Facebook page @olmstead & Hanover and an IG page olmsteadandhanover and I am working on my Etsy page here is the link to that <https://olmsteadhanover.etsy.com/>.

I do have a few wholesale places that carry my work and also sell in person.

Another hobby is buying unfinished quilts and finishing them on my longarm. And I am currently working on a t shirt quilt for a friend.

This is an old sweatshirt I am turning into a quilted jacket

KATHY QUALLS

This photo was taken on a mission we did, in Guatemala. Most of the time, I am the photographer. My husband and I do mission work (prosthetics, installing clean burning stoves, providing water filters and currently, working to complete a medical center!) in rural Guatemala. We have seen people making do, mending, etc and it really is inspiring. The more I personally mend and make do, the more our money can go toward giving others what they need, like clean water and health care. Further, I am able to make some items to sell to help fund these missions.

I sell (both new and upcycled materials) on my ebay page (owupmissionfund).

Our website is

Most updated photos and project progress is on our Facebook page: One World Unity Project

I am going to teach you how to make fabric bowl covers.

BOWL COVERS: *Choose 1 fabric (lining) that is moisture resistant (like windbreakers, umbrella nylon, tablecloths, etc). *Choose 1 fabric that is cotton/cotton blend that has been prewashed (like shirts, skirts, etc). *Elastic ¼” to ½” Cut a circle from each fabric. If doing it for a particular bowl, cut it about 2-½ inches larger than the circumference of the bowl.

With right sides together, sew around the circle, leaving an opening large enough to right side out and insert elastic. This is sewn with about 1/2" seam allowance.

Before turning, I like to reduce bulk by trimming with pinking sheers. Another option is to clip curves.

Turn outside right and finger press. I like to pin it flatter before sewing.

Sew the casing (all the way around) about  $\frac{1}{2}$ " to  $\frac{3}{4}$ " from edge, depending on what elastic you are using. Better a little wider than needed, so you don't end up fighting getting elastic in the casing.

Insert elastic into the casing you made and sew together.

Pin the opening and sew closed. I use a narrow zigzag, but straight stitch is fine. I have found it easiest to work from the inside, to make sure the stitching connects both layers in such a small work area.

And you are done!

FYI- I have been making these for a few years now and they are very well received as a gift that will actually be used. Saves money spent on plastic wraps, etc and far better for the environment. Toss into normal laundry between uses.

UP-CYCLED CLOTH COLLECTIVE GIFT GUIDE

FABMO

FabMo is an volunteer-run non-profit that started when an environmentally-conscious couple learned how much fabric - mostly various-sized upholstery and drapery samples - was discarded every week at the San Francisco Design Center. They arranged to go up to San Francisco from their home in the South Bay to pick up these garbage bags of unwanted samples from various studios. That grew as more and more firms learned that they could save money by donating these materials instead of having them hauled away as trash. Word spread and they began to be offered mill-ends and fabrics still on the roll, wallpaper & tile samples, cones of thread, yarn stashes and various other craft supplies. Where does all this go? It goes to sewists, quilters, paper-crafters, mixed-media artists, school teachers, needleworkers, costumers - you name it! - through a regular schedule of 3-day sale events where you can buy supplies at pennies on the dollar. FabMo also has an online store where some of the most intriguing fabrics, yarns, etc. are offered first, though you must live close enough to the warehouse in Sunnyvale, CA, to pick up your purchases (or have a friend who can do it for you.) It's a wonderful group of people, and a fun and fascinating place to volunteer.

In San Francisco, CA , USA, some of the great thrift shops ( Thrift Village & Savers) have closed due to outrageous rental increases, but we do still have one of the best if not the original SCRAP shop for artists & community. It's been around sine the 1980s? & sells & gives materials of all sorts to artists, teachers & the public for upcycling/ reuse. I remember one of my first purchases years ago was dialysis tubes that were mis-specced. Never upcycled them, but they hung around my studio for years as decorative curios until I finally donated them back. They collaborate with the local garbage collection/ recycling company, the school district & many other organizations.

They have monthly giveaways to teachers, & they offer inexpensive/free workshops. Info below.

A great place to visit if anyone comes to San Francisco! If you ever make it to San Francisco, drop me a line, I'd love to show you upcycling highlights of our city.
